

Polysituatedness: A Poetics of Displacement (Angelaki Humanities)

This book is concerned with the complexities of defining place, of observing and seeing place, and how we might write a poetics of place. From Kathy Acker to indigenous Australian poet Jack Davis, the book touches on other writers and theorists, but in essence is a hands-on praxis book of poetic practice. The work extends John Kinsellas theory of international regionalism and posits new ways of reading the relationship between place and individual, between individual and the natural environment, and how place occupies the person as much as the person occupies place. It provides alternative readings of writers through place and space, especially Australian writers, but also non-Australian. Further, close consideration is given to being of famine-migrant Irish heritage and the complexities of returning. A close-up examination of belonging and exclusion is made on a day-to-day basis. The book offers an approach to creating poems and literary texts constituted by experiencing multiple places, developing a model of polyvalent belonging known as polysituatedness. It works as a companion volume to Kinsellas earlier Manchester University Press critical work, Disclosed Poetics: Beyond Landscape to Lyricism.
