

Elric Live at the BBC Limited Edition

In 1994, author Michael Moorcock recorded eight short readings from his Elric novels which were broadcast individually on B.B.C. Radio Ones Mark Radcliffe Show, April 11th-21st, of that year. In February 1995, Nomads of the Time Streams, the International Michael Moorcock Appreciation Society, released this first edition/limited edition of 30 copies of Elric Live at the BBC. This release features a cassette with the recordings, and a booklet (16 pages including cover) giving the text of the readings plus bibliographic and copyright information, in a presentation box with illustrated labels. The box-label artwork is by Robert Gould, from Elric book covers; the cassette insert features the Brom cover from Elric - Tales of the White Wolf; the booklet features black-and-white illustrations by James Cawthorn and Richard Thomas, from various Elric books. The presentation box labels, the cassette label and insert, and the booklet are hand-numbered, and the booklet is signed by Michael Moorcock on the title page. The background and intro-outro music accompanying each reading is The Shade Gate by Hawkwind, from the groups album The Chronicles of the Black Sword. The tape is short -- about 25 minutes in all -- but as one reviewer put it, the package is a nice collectible for the Moorcock (or Hawkwind) fan who wants everything.
