Slim Randles has been a journalist, editor, author, sportsman, and speaker. After years of making a living from the pen, he is passing on advice to those who want to write for a living. Slims advice is spiced up with his signature view of what the world is and could be. This book is filled with an award-winning authors gentle but firm words to live and write by. In my many decades of living, working and reading in the great state of New Mexico, there is no one better than Slim Randles at writing 500 to 1,000 words. Slims sense of the tragedy and comedy of life was expertly done. - Max Evans, author of The Rounders, Bluefeather Fellini, and The Hi-Lo Country. Building memories and stories is what its all about. Writing is hard work at times but if you have the desire and need to write, as Slim does, life can be a wonderful thing. Lets hope you heed his advice and enjoy the fruits that are waiting to be plucked. - Dr. George L. Cornell, Professor and Director Emeritus, History and American Studies and the Native American Institute, Michigan State University
