The Insidious Dr. Fu Manchu (1913)- Follow the exciting adventures of Commissioner Nayland Smith as he pursues Dr. Fu Manchu across the opium dens of Thames-side London and various country estates.

The Return of Dr. Fu-Manchu (1916)- An account of the further adventures of Dr. Fu-Manchu who first appeared in the authors The Insidious Dr. Fu-Manchu, a story of mysterious China.

The Yellow Claw (1915)- An illusive Chinese mastermind and his henchman have already killed one socialite and they hold a mysterious sway over many of Londons elite. What is the secret of their power? Follow the trail with Gaston Max and Inspector Dunbar as they chase the international gang of hoodlums and their leader, the evil Dr. King.

The Golden Scorpion (1920)- Scorpion! Years before the whispered word had thrilled and alarmed Dr. Stuart. He had watched the Scorpion pass--a terrifying figure, in his monkish cowl and green veil, through which baleful eyes glittered. Now the scorpion had come again, in the form of a golden fragment, innocent enough in appearance, but in fact the symbol of a band as malevolent and desperate as that of Fu-Manchu. The Orchard of Tears (1918)- To the slaves of the pomegranate, sons of Adam and daughters of Eve, who drink at the fountain of life, this chalice is offered as a loving-cup. Dope (1919)- Sax Rohmer's most popular novel, and generally voted a better story than any of the Fu-Manchu books, has taxed the vocabularies of all the reviewers in the country to find the right word to describe its thrilling appeal. Bat Wing (1920)- The first book of the Paul Harley detective series, featuring voodoo, vampirism, and murder in central London. The Green Eyes of Bast (1920)- Forgotten Egyptian mysteries mingling with the life of modern London make a story only a shade less fantastic than usual. Tales of Chinatown (1922)- Ten stories of Macabre Mystery by the creator of the famous Dr. Fu Manchu. Includes the excellent ghost story Tcheriapin and a creeping hand story called The Hand of Mandarin Qung.
