

The Works of Samuel Johnson, Vol. 7 of 12 (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from The Works of Samuel Johnson, Vol. 7 of 12 The last periodical labour of our literary Hercules, was the Idler. It was written originally for a weekly newspaper, entitled the Universal Chronicle, or Weekly Gazette, in which Dr. Johnson was admitted into copartnership by Mr. John Newbery, the proprietor, as a consideration for these essays. It would appear, also, from a singular advertisement from the hand of Johnson, which we shall insert in its place, that he received, besides this interest in the paper, a compensation of a pecuniary nature. Mr. Newbery distinguished himself by the publication of many entertaining volumes adapted to the capacities of children, and his juvenile library has been a great means of facilitating early instruction. Dr. Johnson is said to have written for him several prefaces and introductions, particularly the historical advertisement prefixed to his amusing Collection of Voyages, entitled the World Displayed. Mr. Newbery was, also, an occasional contributor of original matter himself. He died in the year 1776. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
